designated in the new library bill have, as stated in The STAR, all been tormally served with notice to submit the lowest prices they are willing to take for their lots and improvements for $10. It has never failed in 35 years. Call ments, respectively, not later than May 4th. Architect Clark, of the library building commission, served these notices in person. Until the prices demanded are all received the commission cannot make any further progress. It is very evident that there is a decided preference for the squares north of East Capitol street, and the property owners there seem to appreciate the fact that this preference exists. since the passage of the library bill some of the lot owners within the squares have begun to say that they do not care to sell anyhow, and to enlarge upon the trouble of moving, etc. In ne case a party had included in the plat of his grounds a portion of a public alley, which he has been permitted to use for years in order to make the rear of his premises easily accessible In view of the manifest disposition to get high prices for property in the north square, the commission regard it as highly probable that they will purchase the south square. After all the property owners shall have been heard from, and their figures shall have been tabu-lated, the commission may decide to make an appeal to the owners of the north square to readjust, by mutual arrangement, their prices so as to bring the aggregate within the limit fixed by the bill. There is no intention, they say, of going beyond that limit, and if the north square cannot be had for the money, then that on the outh of East Capitol street will be taken. As yet, of course, nothing has been determined with regard to the material to be used in the building, but a STAR reporter was informed that murble will probably be used. There are members of both houses of Congress who openly declare in favor of the purchase of both the squares named in the library bill, provided the owners will agree to a reasonable figure. Mr. Hewitt, of New York, has expressed willingness to introduce and press a bill for the purchase of that one of the two squares which will not be selected by the library commission, but before doing so he stipulates that all the owners of lots within it shall set forth in writing the lowest sums they will sell for, and affix ecessary, so that he can fix that as the limit to

THE THIRD MEETING TO BE HELD IN THIS CITY NEXT WEEK. The American "Historical association, as announced in THE STAR, will hold its third meeting in the lecture hall of the Columbia university in this city, beginning next Tuesday and continuing three days. Mr. George Bancroft, president of the association, will deliver the opening address and present a communication from Leopold von Ranke, the only honorary member of the association. Morning and evening sessions will be held. Papers have been promised by representatives of various historical societies, colleges and universities. The American Historical association now numbers 392 members, including 71 life members. At the Saratoga meeting last September there were present over 50 members, with an average au-dience of 150 persons. At the coming meeting in this city Mr. Bancroft will preside for the first and last time, as he declines future re-election as president. The other officers of the association are: Vice presidents, Justin Winsor, of Harvard university; Charles Kendall Adams, president of Cornell university; secre tary, Herbert B. The bill also provides that all persons confined for more than thirty days in southern prisons shall receive a per diem of $2 for each day's confinement, and to meet the expenditure on this account will, it is estimated, require an appropriation of about $4,000,000.
